

Alka Singh

(Assistant Professor of English at Dr Ram Manohar Lohiya National Law University Lucknow)

The prejudiced goat

And the prejudiced goat
entered the wolf's pack,
an irritated ewe, as she was !

The wolves there reclining

In the dwindling grove.

The goat bleats ,
the goat implores ...

The wolf in reverie
says "no" to explore.

The goat moves on
with an intent to perform.

Jungle, there to sustain the lot,
totems, versions, many a force...

And the prejudiced goat
Just makes her own cocoon ...

some wounded rabbits,
jackals and baboons
plotting the versions at a stall.

2

Half truth

A truth half seen,
a truth half read,
truth half said.

A prejudiced mind
quivers so oft,
nimble wordings
of torrents so fast.

Half truth seen
Undressed in thoughts;
so many saddling
rallying fast .

Feels the pen and feels the mind
hallowed systems trail along

A truth half seen,
a truth half read
prejudiced feelings and rotten thoughts ...

3