

Shreya Mudgil ‘Summer’

(Shreya Mudgil ‘Summer’, PhD Research Fellow, Indian Institute of Technology Jammu, India.)

Setting up A Meditation

I will imagine a point
a dot symbolizing your heart and pierce upon it with one directional concentration.

This sun storming on paper may be violent-it may alarm you, at odd hours and leave you, drenched in dreams and sweat.

Essentially, I will hunt the door to sit, where you communicate with yourself.

It is not your knowledge that I seek Eating sun mangoes is easy
in innocent ignorance Intellectually you are crowned “But does he wear it to the inwardly chamber?”

Memory is like visiting a website.

I log in several times
the store, the latch, the synergy are all secure.

The monument is embalmed
and filled with floodwaters
I let myself crystallize around the treasure,
and stitch morning to morning,
and night to night.