My Last Photo

A moment of life froze
In the snick of a machine
Though in time lost its sheen
It comes alive for a scrutiny close
There he is in my front
Sitting beside a lady clad in sari
Corrected my articles
On his left is one who set
My faltering prepositions.
You can see one at the end
With greying hairline
Who was ever willing to lend
His heart and mind fine
There is one with spectacles smart
Shooting the glances in a dart
He used to sneer my lineage
More than my language
Yet I keep to my heart this image
For it holds one who made my page
A passport to luxurious life
Free from mundane strife
